ANNOUNCEMENTS

Frank A. Bill has the exclusive sale of Partisan shoes and Oxfords for ladies at $3.50 and $4.

Somers Bros. have all the early vegetables at their market on Franklin square. Among them are Long Island potatoes, green corn, cucumbers, squash and melons. In the fruit line they have Bartlett pears, apples, plums and cherries.

The school to attend is the one which gives the best training, whose efficiency of its graduates is attested by those who employ them—schools which have made good for nearly a quarter of a century—this is the record of the New London Business College, New London. Get a catalogue of this college, which may be had for the asking. Write for a copy today—now.

Concert by Tubbs' Band.

The following programme will be given this evening by Tubbs' Military Band on the Shannon building, opposite the Wauregan house, under the auspices of H. B. Davenport, Hayes Bros., George Engler, H. B. Smith, Daniel Williams, E. Raphael & Son: 1. March, Old Friends, Charles H. Lampe. 2. Popular Air, Revick No. 5, Lampe. 3. Piccolo Solo, Orville Polka, Wildfield. Mr. E. H. Bred.

4. Waltzes, Marsovia, Belcher. 5. Selection, The Mocking Bird, Robert. 6. Barn Dance, Fluffy Ruffles, Corin. 7. Cornet Solo, I Wish I Had a Girl, La-Boy. 8. (a) Internationals, Hubbel. (b) Trombone Antics, Slippy. 9. Medley, A Big Time Tonight, Lampe. C. W. Tubbs, conductor.

RODERICK THEATER.

Mr. Al Ouseley, who was heard at the Roderick last night, received big applause, being the feature of the performance. Mr. Ouseley, being a late star of H. Henry's minstrels, sang by request Silver Threads Among the Gold. Mr. William Delaney, who was heard in Set 'Em Up in the Other Alley, also answered to several recalls. The Roderick theater, which has proven to be one of the best theaters in the city, is showing pictures of the highest class, their feature picture being A Rural Tragedy.

BREED THEATER.

Fighting Bob, Thrilling United States Navy Picture.

What was pronounced to be one of the best motion pictures seen here in a long time was shown at the Breed theater last evening, under the title of Fighting Bob, a picture which was a picture of great surprises, as scenes being laid in Mexico were very novel, and the clever traps laid by the wily Mexicans were almost successful, the jolly tars from the lieutenant's cruiser, lying in the harbor, being on the spot, and the young lieutenant is allowed to depart with his bride after a strenuous struggle with his obstinate parent.

Perhaps the clearest picture seen here this season is entitled The Cricket on the Hearth, a beautiful photographic portrayal of Dickens' famous story, other excellent ones being How Jones Paid His Debts, Father Hunting on the Island of Java, Mrs. Faust, an absurd reversal of the story of Faust, and Alphonse Gets In Wrong.

Much pleasure was given the audience by Mr. William Scott, the popular tenor, who rendered in his usual fine manner "Evening Rest" (Rottoli), necessitating an encore.

Mr. A. H. Ouseley, who for several seasons was the feature of the big quartette traveling with Primrose's Minstrels, sang for the patrons the old time favorite, "Silver Threads Among the Gold," which proved very pleasing.

LINCOLN PARK.

Vaudeville at Rustic Theater.

The man or woman with a taste for vaudeville who isn't suited by the bill this week at Lincoln park is a hard person to entertain. There are five acts, and every one is worth seeing several times. The rollicking sketch of Hawley and Bachan starts in with some foolish bumps and tumbles by the man on rollers, but before the performance is over he dances a hornpipe and gets in some difficult and pretty steps. Clara Mae Hammett, the soprano, is a comely young woman, who sings sweetly and is a decided park favorite. Al. H. Burton, the solemn-looking chap who togs out in a black Prince Albert rig, is a capital story teller, with a few good local hits and several catchy songs. Duffy's Finish brings the loudest and longest laughs. Leonard and Whitney are especially clever in their portrayal of the woman suddenly come into money and the desire for high-toned society, and the husband who doesn't take kindly to the society and of it. The Vynos, the bright musical pair who walk out into the barnyard and proceed to get sweet music out of everything in sight, including fence, pump, milk pail and brindle cow, furnish unique and delightful closing act. When they throw off their farm tops just before the final curtain and make their bow in Highlanders' costume, with bagpipes and the crowd votes the Vyno family all right for clothes as well as music.

NEW AEROPLANE

Being Built in Washington by Bridgeport Man.

A new aeroplane of the monoplanes type and embodying several novel features is being built in Washington by John H. Smidley of Bridgeport. The inventor intends to bid for the construction of a machine if the signal corps proposes new specifications. The monoplane is thirty-two feet across from tip to tip of its wings. It has a maximum depth from front to rear of five feet and weighs only 200 pounds with an 18 horse power motor installed.

One of its unique features is the position of the propeller, which is placed in the exact center of the machine. A new method is used, consisting of two planes in front of the machine, working at different angles and controlling both the lateral and vertical movement of the aeroplane. The lifting surfaces of the machine are curved and the machine is staunchly constructed of bamboo and a light canvas impregnated with a rubber solution. Smidley has made gliding experiments and expects the monoplane to develop great speed.

DANBURY NEWS.

Bride Admitted Secret Marriage.

On June 14, Prof. Glover A. Toms of Providence and Helen E. Avery of Stamford, slipped away from their relatives and friends, went to Bridgeport, secured a marriage license at the town clerk's office, waited on Rev. Gerald H. Beard of the Park street church, were married and returned home. The couple kept the secret of the marriage but the bride inadvertently let the secret out, at a social gathering a few nights since, and as a number of lawyers, friends of the groom, happened to be present they began a little cross-questioning for the fun, and the secret was laid bare. When the groom was confronted with the evidence obtained by his lawyer friends there was nothing left to do but to give a yachting party, which he did, July 4, when the announcement of the wedding was made public.

Where Meredith Got His Money.

When probate of George Meredith's will was granted people were surprised to find that he had left an estate valued at $23,359, of which the net personalty was sworn at $2,183. His work had been unrecognized at home for so long that $10,000 or $15,000 was the most at which his probable fortune had been estimated.

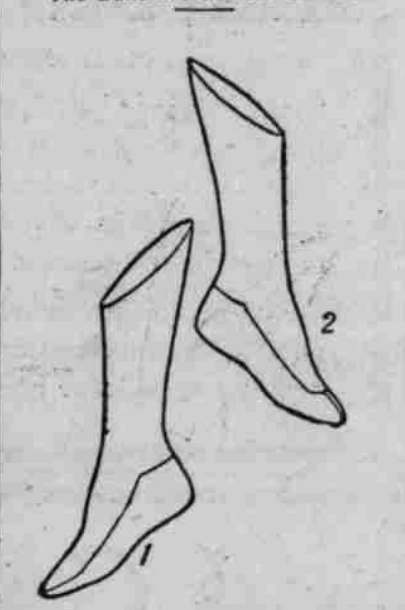

It must not be thought that the fortune he actually left was the result of his own work. It was due to legacies that fell to him fairly late in life. The biggest was from an uncle to whom Meredith's father was in debt when he died. As soon as he had scraped the money together Meredith sent his uncle a check, which was never presented, and later became the legacy. The fortune left by four of Meredith's contemporaries in literature were: Algernon Charles Swinburne, $24,282; Robert Browning, $18,775; Lord Tennyson, $27,056; William Morris, $55,059.

A New Kind of Postal Card.

The advertising manager of a big business house in this city has invented a postcard which has been patented in this country and all over Europe, and will probably be widely used for advertising and souvenir purposes. It consists of an ordinary postcard with a round hole in the middle about the size of a quarter and a collapsible figure of rice paper pasted on the back. This figure may be any shape desired and may be printed with the likeness of historic buildings or other things it is desired to reproduce. A puff of the breath through the hole fills out the rice paper figure which assumes the wanted shape, and stays that way until again folded. It is an interesting novelty, and particularly well adapted to bear figures of buildings of historic or other interest. The collapsible card will also be made in the form of a bank with a slot for coins. The inventor happened on this idea while building cardboard figures for his little daughter—Philadelphia Record.

HOME GARMENT MAKING.

The Bulletin's Pattern Service.

PATTERN FOR REFOOTING STOCKINGS.

Paris Pattern No. 2750 — All Seams Allowed.

This pattern will be a joy to the economical mother who throws a stocking away because the foot and sole are beyond darning. These feet may be cut from the legs of old stockings and will be found especially useful for light thread or silk, which wear out so quickly. They should be very carefully joined, so that the seams will be unnoticeable as possible.

The pattern is in eleven sizes—6 to 11, stocking size. No quantities are given for this pattern, as the new sole is cut from the leg portion of an old stocking, the pattern itself being the required size.

Price of pattern, 10 cents. Order through The Bulletin Company, Pattern Dept., Norwich, Conn.
